MAYAHUEL: A YOUNG WOMEN'S RESILIENCY PROGRAM

Mayahuel is a gender responsive and culturally relevant program for young women ages 13-19 that acknowledges diversity while working toward resiliency.

Mayahuel workshops incorporate cultural and creative activities that strengthen young women's sense of cultural identity, develop a space where young women are able to rely on peer support and mentorship, and provide opportunities for young women to see themselves beyond the expectations of their gender. Themes interwoven throughout the curriculum include voice, agency, community, culture, character development, interpersonal skills, life skills, health-related behaviors, conflict resolution, and leadership.
